

In this zip it contains a folder that can be opened in VSCode run with Python 3.10.

When you run `app.py`, it will prompt you to open a link to the application. There you will be in a login page where you can enter your email and password. If the email and password is matched to the database, you will be redirected to the home page.

For the scope of this progress review, the `database.db` file only includes data population from the `users.csv` file.
